

Club England Community July Update

Welcome to July's Club England Community update. Are you under 18? Then why not check out our new Facebook and Twitter channels especially created for under 18's to strike up some badminton banter or take a look at the badminton brawl that took place at the Canadian Grand Prix a few weeks ago which has resulted in the BWF taking deservedly strong action against the players involved.

We have also included an article first published on the BADMINTON England website regarding the true legacy that we have seen since London 2012 one year ago or check out the new competition calendar and see if you would like to get involved.

Tickets for the London Grand Prix in partnership with adidas at the Copper Box Arena in October and the Yonex All England Open Badminton Championships 2014 in Birmingham next March are on sale so why not come and join us and watch some of the worlds top badminton players in action on English soil?

One year on: The true legacy

Although nearly 365 days have passed with the Olympic and Paralympic Games feeling like a far-flung memory, there has been significant progress within the sport of badminton during this year.

Bring it on @racketheads

Introducing RacketHeads on Facebook and @racketheads on twitter – the go-to place for Under 18s to strike up badminton banter, share content, upload photos, give shoutouts & get involved in regular giveaways.

BADMINTON England Competition Calendar now ready

BADMINTON England offers a wide range of competition - for experienced players competing regularly and for those players who might want to experience competition outside of a club environment

Check out the badminton brawl at the Canadian Open 2013

Former badminton doubles partners were involved in a bizarre fight during the men's doubles final which has led to one receiving a 2 year ban and the other 3 months. Read more

FACT OF THE MONTH: Following on from the birth of Prince George of Cambridge last week we wondered if any royalty had ever been involved in badminton and look what we found:

Princess Sirivannavari represented Thailand in badminton in 2005 at the 23rd South East Asian Games in the Philippines, even though she didn't win any medals it could be the start of a royal mixed doubles partnership.

Play it. Love it. Live it.
